

Centurion Kiosk™

CHECK-IN | COLLECTIONS SOLUTION

CENTURION KIOSK

Sentinel's Centurion Kiosk was developed to serve a number of administrative functions for correctional agencies and provide innovative offender reporting and collection options. Capable of serving a host of different correctional agencies, the kiosk can be stationed at Sentinel offices, courthouses, jails or any government agency building, making it easy for users to access and quickly complete their transactions.

The versatility of the kiosk means it can perform monthly or variably scheduled probationer check-ins, collect-court ordered fines, fees or restitution, and accept commissary account deposits for incarcerated offenders. Using a simple touchscreen interface, the user can perform these functions remotely at any kiosk location. In addition, the kiosk is equipped with a built-in speaker to assist the user through their transaction(s). On-screen prompts walk the user through the transaction process and are available in multiple languages.

The kiosk uses a secure interface to exchange data with an agency in real-time. The interface is developed in conjunction with the agency to ensure all appropriate safeguards and securities are in place.

The Centurion Kiosk from Sentinel offers agencies these significant features and benefits:

- + The processing inmate jail deposits from multiple locations;
- + The ability to process fines, fees, and restitution payments via cash or credit card transactions;
- + The Kiosk uses biometric finger identification to conduct secure participant check-in verification;
- + The Kiosk automates processes to reduce the amount of transaction paperwork;
- + The Kiosk features a built-in camera for security purposes;
- + Easy-to-use touchscreen interface provides on-screen and audible instructions, and;
- + The Kiosk communicates with agency systems through an on-line web-based application.
